Programme Features The HND/C in Performing Arts programme focuses on building creative practitioners with a strong accent on theatre practice in, and for, the community. It is a vocational course, focusing on various disciplines as a Performing Arts practitioner with a community focus. Various projects are undertaken that develop the practical skills as performers/practitioners whilst providing a service to the local community and further afield. It gives the opportunity to develop the skills, knowledge and understanding for successful performance in various media. Practical aspects of performance techniques and methods for drama and dance and also some of the methodologies used by practitioners in these arts are explored.
Another benefit is the degree of flexibility in the programme which gives an option/opportunity to specialise in areas that are of particular interest. A substantial proportion of the practical sessions involve performance work which includes development, production, direction and participation.
Overall, it provides a thorough insight of the processes of professional work in the world of drama and dance. All staff have professional experience and professionals also come into the curriculum area to do workshops. The course is also delivered in a professional theatre environment.
